CHATTER

Haw cute. They even screech like pteradactyls.

Why aren't the Piranflies attacking yau?

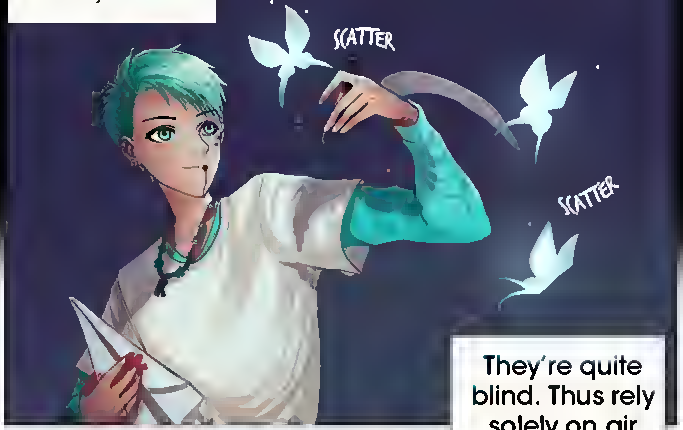
Ah, the Bugs-off "calagne" fram earlier deters them ?

Why are they sparing the girl—

See Chapter 3.2

Nasy much, Dream Weaver?

Piranflies have no interest in inanimated objects



They're quite blind. Thus rely solely on air vibration to locate their targets.

Basically, standing still makes you invisible to them.

Mentally thanking Kissae for dragging me to strange places.

You're saving my life, Kissae.

Whose child is this and why are its paws on me?
Though Kissae's response is probably something rude like that...

Her sudden fall startled me.
I thought physical combat would ensue...
PHEW
It did

work afterall.

Piranflies are extremely toxic.

Their bodies contain potent cardiotoxin and neurotoxin causing paralysis, blood clotting, multisystem organ failure, suffocation. Ultimately, death upon ingestion.

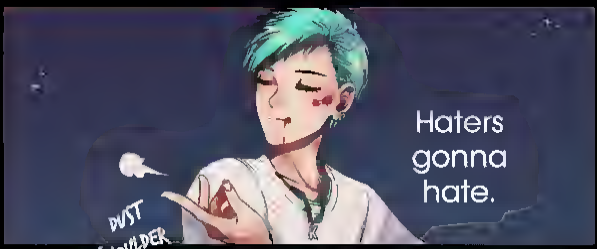
Hence the aposematic fluorescent glow to ward off predators.

The Arachnid Nurse poisoned herself by consuming the Piranflies.

Poison? Wow. How cliché.



Well, Can't have my only source of entertainment passing out from blood loss.

Your swift demise equals my boredom for the next 4 hours

35 mins.

Here's your reward for surviving the 2nd round, Kryon.

Aposematic: Colorful markings found in poisonous animals that predators have learned to avoid. (Like the poison dart frog) Demise: Death.
